At CWM, our attorneys represent all tiers in the contracting hierarchy, from owners to primes to subcontractors and suppliers.

We advise clients on federal and state procurement laws, including agency supplements like the new cybersecurity protocols in DFARS 252.204-7012 (NIST 800-171). We also assist clients with key contracting issues, like teaming arrangements, risk analysis, and prosecuting or defending protests.

During performance, our attorneys assist with matters such as change orders, equitable adjustments, claim preservation, delays, differing site conditions, and termination. We also help clients after performance, including with payment disputes, bond claims, mediation, litigation, arbitration, and appeals.
