

Week in Review—Autonomous Roundup

Wednesday, March 25, 2020

James Chapman, Chair
Autonomous and Unmanned Systems Group

This Week's Highlight

Our favorite report this week brings a little smile in such uncertain times. During the coronavirus lockdown, guy uses a drone to ask out a girl.

Chula Vista PD uses drones to enforce coronavirus lockdown

In the fight against the coronavirus, we have seen other countries turn to drones to help communicate to people and urge them to stay inside. We have not seen similar drone use in the U.S. until now.

Click here to read.

Will COVID-19 Create a Big Moment for A.I. and Machine Learning?

COVID-19 will change how the majority of us live and work. It's creating a challenge for companies that ordinarily rely on human labor. Are A.I. and machine learning advanced enough to help these companies handle the disruption?

Click here to read.

U.S. Department of Defense has no plans to use drones to fight coronavirus

China is using drones to spray large areas with disinfectants, but the U.S. military says it has no plans to use large agricultural drones for disinfecting.

Click here to read.

WE PROVIDE MORE THAN SOUND LEGAL ADVICE. WE PROVIDE SOLUTIONS.

CWM
CRENSHAW, WARE & MARTIN, PLC

Helping our clients stay ahead of the rapidly changing legal, risk and regulatory climate surrounding unmanned and autonomous systems.